THIRTY-NINTH YEAR, No. 35

DECISION OF L. & N. R. R. TO MOVE OFFICE A WAY WILL NOT BE CHANGED

E. J. Gex, Envoy to Louisville From Bay St. Louis Returns With Information Auditing Department Will Not Remain.

As special envoy to Louisville from the Bay St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, and also in a measure representing the Rotary Club, E. J. Gex returned home a few days ago from his trip and brought the information that the decision of executives to move from Bay St. Louis the auditing department of the L. & N. R. R. stands. That because of business conditions there was no alternative but to cut down operating expenses. Mr. Gex's report is interesting and will be officially presented to the Chamber of Commerce at the meeting Tuesday night, President Rea states. The full report will be read and Mr. Gex possibly present will give other personal comment.

Mr. Gex says: "I met Mr. Evans in his office Friday morning, as per appointment, and he was exceedingly cordial. He was willing to discuss the matter fully, but unfortunately his mind had been made up and there was no chance of a change. Before going into the matter I knew the following facts: "That the railroad only made up their mind and determined things after a thorough and complete discussion of the matter, and that if a policy was acted upon by the railroad, it was only after a thorough and complete discussion of the matter, and it was exceedingly difficult to get a railroad to change its policy. "In addition to this I was of the opinion and had been advised, that the railroad had permitted the department to remain in Pensacola, or rather had deferred its original order for removing the auditing department, and I figured that I could use this as a talking point.

"When I got to Louisville I also found out that financial conditions up there are worse than here. There is a tremendous depression, with numbers of people out of employment. These facts all confronted me when I met Mr. Evans. "Mr. Evans, in his discussion with me, told me that he found the same conditions existing all over the country. That when a railroad attempted to change any of its departments, that all cities with departments worked against the moving. "He sent and got the report that he had dictated that morning, and in fact the stenographer was working on the report, and we had to wait about ten minutes for the stenographer to complete the said report. When the report was brought to Evans he showed me a startling list of figures, that I can't but yet believe that possibly I misunderstood the facts, but I am positive that I did not misunderstand. "He showed me comparative statements as to the earnings of the L. & N. Railroad for the first six months

ARRESTED HERE FOR CAR THEFT

Two New Orleans Youths Are Turned Over to City Police By County Officers

August Jones, 18, and Joe Bourgeois, 16, both of New Orleans, were turned over to New Orleans officers by Hancock county police Wednesday afternoon, following their arrest in Hancock county for the theft of a 1927 Buick roadster taken in New Orleans and which was retrieved on the Old Spanish Trail at the Keller Filling Station which the two men broke in Tuesday night in an attempt to secure gasoline, with which to operate the auto. Two hobs, Green and Miller by name, said to be from Florida, were arrested with the New Orleans youths, but released here Wednesday.

Frank Keller, his brother-in-law, George Stewart and Ed Keller, former Hancock county superintendent of education, who were at the Keller Filling station on the trail, heard the men break in the station about 10 o'clock, Tuesday night, officers state, and when they attempted to catch the men, they are said to have run, except the hobo Green who remained at the car, gave himself up and told that Bourgeois and Jones had picked up Green and Miller at Bay St. Louis and were giving them a ride. Waiting and watching, the men at the station finally caught Bourgeois near Brown's Filling station also on the trail. The men sent for Deputy Sheriff Lemuel Miller who reached the scene of the robbery about 8:30 a. m. Wednesday and who assisted in arresting Jones and Miller. All were taken to Bay St. Louis and lodged in jail and New Orleans officers notified of the capture. Sheriff J. C. Jones states that the hobs were not implicated in the

Six Lettermen Will Return at Bay High For 1930 Campaign

With only six regulars of last year's Gulf Coast regional class B championship team returning, new prospects will be watched closely when candidates for the Bay High football team turn out at the pre-school training camp on September 2. Coach F. G. "Spark Plug" Corley is expected to arrive here this week, and will go immediately about the task of replacing the seven varsity men who will not be back this season. He will find the line the hardest hit, with Dick Koch at tackle and "Bama" Middleton at guard the only first-stringers left from last year's squad. The loss of Captain "Mac" Coward, center; alternate captain-elect Lester Garriga, guard; Frank Beeson and Herman Casanova, ends; Argle Mitchell, tackle, and Ed Nathan, guard, will be hard-felt. Four lettermen, Nolan Ladner, Nolan Tacopi, Earl Hest, and Ernest Current, will be on hand in the backfield, but the scoring punch will be greatly weakened by the absence of Captain-elect Gasper Maurigi, fullback.

TELEPHONE FIGURES ARE OF MORE THAN ORDINARY INTEREST

No Other Industry Has Done More For World Unity of Thought—Frisco Leads In Density.

At the time of the last official telephone census we had 59 per cent of the world's 32,712,284 instruments.

We have 16.3 telephones for each 100 persons of our population, Canada, with 13.7 per hundred, is the only other country even approximating this record. Germany, second to the United States in total number, has but 4.6 instruments per hundred. The 51 American cities with populations in excess of 200,000 have an average of 22.8 telephones per hundred, while only two foreign cities have an equally high average. New York City has nearly as many telephones as Great Britain. San Francisco leads the world in telephone density, with an instrument for every three persons.

In the space of a single lifetime the telephone has encircled the world, and cities, states, nations and continents together through the medium of the spoken word. No other industry has done more for world unity of thought.

BAY ST. LOUISANS RETURN FROM LONG AUTO TRIP WEST

Leche Party Cover Over Four Thousand Miles And See Many Things on Trip.

A party composed of Mrs. H. A. Leche, her son, Andre, daughter, Mrs. Lucille Smith, of Houston, and the latter's two little daughters, Mitzi and Mary Lou Smith, returned home this week from an auto trip to the Pacific Coast, covering some forty-five hundred miles, according to road maps. Mr. Andre Leche, assisted by his sister, Mrs. Smith, conducted the tour and leaving Bay St. Louis, en route to Houston, by way of Louisiana, the party met with slight difficulties after which at no time was even a puncture experienced. The high spots of the trip included San Antonio, Cooldidge and Roosevelt dams in Arizona. From Phoenix the party reached its farthest point at San Diego. A time was spent at Los Angeles and surrounding towns and places were included in the itinerary. On the home trip a stop was enjoyed at the Grand Canyon in Arizona. The party was gone three weeks, never experienced the slightest indisposition at any time, ideal weather and, save for Andre losing his grip on the steering wheel at Houston, the party did not suffer the least untoward experience.

On the return trip, the party was delayed at the border crossing at Brownsville, Texas, where the car was stopped and searched. The party was then taken to the border crossing at Brownsville, Texas, where the car was stopped and searched. The party was then taken to the border crossing at Brownsville, Texas, where the car was stopped and searched.

These classes will meet three times a week. Any person not attending day school will be admitted to these classes. There is no charge whatever for either night school classes or the evening classes.

Night school classes will meet on Wednesday night at 7:00 P. M., Sept. 10th, for organization. Get started with the first class.

BOARD ADJOURNS AFTER HEARING TAX OBJECTIONS

The board of supervisors of Hancock county will adjourn Friday after having been in session since the first Monday of August hearing objections from property holders of the county regarding assessment rolls. The rolls will be definitely closed Friday and the clerk, A. G. Favre, will make recapitulations to show totals. It is estimated that the rolls this year will show a decrease in assessments of about half a million dollars. Mr. Favre stated, basing his statement on preliminary figures from the rolls. Last year the total assessment of the county was about $8,804,000. Following the county's work on the rolls the assessments will be sent to the state tax commission for approval.

Peoples Bldg. & Loan Association of Bay St. Louis Declares Dividend

At a special meeting Tuesday afternoon, held for the purpose, the Peoples Building & Loan Association board of directors received the semi-annual report of the secretary and declared a 7 per cent dividend, to be paid by check to all owners of paid up stock.

Secretary J. A. Breath reports business active and the association enjoying the confidence of the public both at home and from away, and the fact that the regular handsome dividend has again been earned and ordered paid well sustains the success of the association. Secretary Breath will mail all checks to paid up stockholders on September 1, the day on which ordered to be paid.

City Helps To Cut Grass

The Bay St. Louis Chamber of Commerce is much pleased with the cooperation received from many who have aided in the beautification and clean-up campaign and who have cut the weeds and grass on their vacant property, on sidewalks and in yards of tenement houses. Some property holders found it inconvenient to have the grass cut and the city of Bay St. Louis through its commissioners have been doing some fine work in cutting grass wherever possible to use the city workers, thus coming to the "rescue" as it were of the Chamber of Commerce in its effort.

BIDWELL'S RECORD

Lieutenant-Governor Bidwell Adam has not made a straight-out announcement as a candidate for reelection, but in reading between the lines of recent speeches he has made it very confident he will make such an announcement in the near future. His record as president of the State senate entitles him to reelection, and he has only to say the word and his election is assured it matters not who may oppose him.

Coast friends are glad to know that Adam Lewis, who has been a patient at the Gulf Infirmary since the first of August, is improving.

Much interest is being evidenced in the sale of the golf course, said to be one of the finest in this part of the country, and a number of bidders are expected to be on hand Monday to determine the ownership of the beautifully developed property.

LEGION BENE FIT SHOW THIS FRIDAY NIGHT IS SUBJECT OF INTEREST

FUTURE OF OUR STATE WRAPPED IN OUR TIMBER PRESERVATION

State Forester Says Outlook Is Dark—Timber Will Always Be in Demand.

It will put to good use, he says, speaking of this industry half of the land area of Mississippi, and he drops this cheering bit of optimism at a time when so many in the state are more concerned than usual on the business outlook.

"The outlook is not dark; for timber supplies our leading manufacturers and always will be one of our important necessities." He suggests a program of timber growing on all Mississippi land now being used for other purposes. He understands why this has not been done more largely before. Those who have turned to it have found it profitable.

The future of Mississippi, wrapped up as it is in timber, is largely dependent upon how aggressively such thoughts as these are seized upon by business men as well as agricultural leaders, and nothing could be more important than energetic support of such a program.

Mrs. C. A. Spori, Resident of South Beach Boulevard, Succumbs to Long Illness.

Mrs. Louise Theresa Spori, wife of the late Charles Spori, and a resident of Bay St. Louis for over thirty-five years, died on Wednesday afternoon at 1:15 o'clock, a native of New Orleans, aged 72 years. Mrs. Spori had not been well for the past few years and of late her condition grew worse until the end came. Mrs. Spori was best known for her Christian practices. She was a devout member of the Catholic church and lived the true exemplary life. Her charities were many and seemingly knew no bounds. Her husband was a prominent business man in New Orleans in which city he passed away many years ago. Surviving are Mrs. Joseph L. Killen, Cyprian A. Jr., Edward F. Alice, Walter J. Elsie and Hilda Spori, four daughters, and three sons, and six grandchildren.

The funeral took place Thursday afternoon from the residence of her son, C. A. Spori, Jr., 6550 Oakland Drive, with interment at Metairie.

Demise of Mrs. Spori causes general sorrow. She was highly esteemed and personally beloved by all who knew her. The family have the sympathy of many friends both here and in New Orleans as well as elsewhere.

Young Carver Back Home From Service In Uncle Sam's Defense

Ernest S. Carver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Carver, of Waveland, who has been in the service of Uncle Sam since 1917, is back home and is generally welcomed by the many friends of the family in the Bay-Waveland district. Young Carver served three and one-half years in the Navy and the balance of the time in the army. He was honorably discharged and is at home with the family, and enjoys being back home after thirteen years in the service of his country. He is a brother of our well-known townsman, Dudley Carver.

Gex's report regarding his trip to headquarters to urge the retention of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad offices here will be heard.

Nail In Foot

Frank Canucheau, 11 years old, here for the summer, was treated at the King's Daughters Emergency Hospital Wednesday morning having a nail stuck in his left foot. He was taken to his home.

After weeks of preparation and rehearsal and every effort exerted to give one of the best performances ever presented locally, the minstrel and general entertainment program to be given Friday night by the Clement R. Bontemps Post, of Bay St. Louis, promises to go over big. Not to attend will mean to miss the best show yet presented, besides everybody should feel the soldier boys—our very own—should be accorded a substantial reception.

It is no secret the Bay St. Louis legion has quite a number of obligations of long accumulation which they are anxious to discharge, besides they have some community work they wish to engage in. Thus the money realized tonight will be put to not only a good cause but to double purpose.

ACADEMY TO OPEN SEPT. 9.

Day Pupils Are Asked to Register September 6 to 9—Good Year Anticipated.

St. Joseph's Academy will open its 1930-31 session September 9. Mother Claire, mother superior and head of the school, announces. The people of Bay St. Louis are delighted to know that Mother Claire will again head the school and that there are no changes in the faculty, other than the addition of another teacher, Sister Mary Alice who comes here from Crookston, Minn., and who will teach French. The school had requested additional faculty members and following the close of the annual retreat of the order held at St. Joseph's convent in New Orleans, August 8 to 15, this new teacher was granted the school.

The day pupils are asked to register at the academy September 6 to 9 and receive their books during that time. The boarding students will arrive September 9, and their classes will begin September 10. Indications are that a very fine session is in store for the school, applications showing a large number of boarding students than last year.

The pupils are requested by the mother superior to attend school in full uniform, the regulations requiring white middie blouse and black skirt, navy blue skirt. The blouses are to have long sleeves or if the sleeves are short they should be at least four inches below the shoulder.

The new gymnasium, begun as the diamond jubilee building gift to the school, is progressing well, the iron frame being in place and the brick work coming along nicely. It is hoped to have the building completed and ready for the jubilee celebration in the fall.

J. I. Smith, prosecuting attorney for Lawrence county, charged with "drunkenness in office," has been tried, convicted and dismissed from office.

The Echo is still of the opinion that at least one of the candidates for governor will retire from the race long before the primary is held next August.

"Ma" Ferguson was badly defeated in her aspirations to again be governor of the great State of Texas in last Saturday's run-off for the Democratic nomination.

The chief difference between a wet and a prohibitionist is the way they vote.—Mobile Register. Substitute "only" for "chief" and The Echo will agree with you.

Up to the hour of going to press we had not heard that Edward Jackson, young teller of a Laurel bank being apprehended. It looks as if he made a good get-away with that $71,000.

Proof of loyalty to the national Democratic ticket in 1928 is going to be the acid test applied to every candidate for office in Mississippi next year. That is something the Hoovercrats did not think about when they knifed the party nominees.

That was sound advice when John Wanamaker, the multi-millionaire merchant prince of Philadelphia, said: "Advertise loudest when your customers are fewest." Yet there are business men who curtail their outlay for printer's ink when trade shows a let up.

Old Sir Thomas Lipton is back again with a brand new boat with which he hopes to win the American cup. We admire the veteran sportsman's repeated attempts to regain the trophy but are confident he will be no more successful this year than he has been in past contests.

We are told that New Orleans gamblers are laying odds of 5 to 1 that Huey Long will be nominated as United States senator over in Louisiana. Were we not unalterably opposed to betting we would be inclined to cover some of that money to the full limit of our pocketbook.

We do not believe that we would be far wrong in asserting that 75 per cent of the bootleggers and other violators of our national prohibition statutes are aliens, and the only remedy which will serve to check them is sure and certain deportation in every instance where their guilt is proven.

The amended primary election law, which went into effect June 1, 1930, gives the judges, clerks and bailiffs $3.00 per day for holding primary elections to nominate candidates for office. That $3.00 per day will insure elections being held in every precinct whereas in the past election officials received no pay at all.

"Demagogues and cheap politicians are the curse of the nation, and the sooner the people recognize them and turn deaf ears to their claptrap the better off we will be."—Columbus Commercial-Dispatch. Then you said something; but the trouble has been the people have failed to "recognize and turn deaf ears to their claptrap."

The autobiography of H. Rider Haggard, the English novelist, has recently been published and the most striking passage we find in it is where the author says: "I have seen many lands, I have known many emotions, all of them I think, except that of hate." That one brief expression shows the great character of the man. How few, either living or dead, could claim to have never harbored the feeling?

Politics have reached a pretty low ebb when candidates for high and responsible positions denounce each other as liars, crooks and scoundrels. There was a time in our great State, when such charges were never heard,—but then we must remember we had great men who sought political preferment at the hands of a great electorate in those days. Surely "times do be changed," as old Rip Van Winkle remarked.

The South Mississippi fair, to be held at Laurel, September 29-October 4, will bring together all the candidates for governor, invitation having been extended to each of them to be present and present their claims for the high office to which they aspire. The temperature then will not be so torrid as when they met in Neshoba county, but we very much doubt that it will have much effect on the language regarding one another.

A practical joker inserted an advertisement in a Detroit paper the other day stating that 500 men were wanted at a local automobile manufacturing plant. Several hundred more than that number were on hand to get jobs early the following morning and when informed that the advertisement was unauthorized, their disappointment almost resulted in a riot. Of course the joker got a great kick out of it but not as great a one as would have been administered by the men who sought employment, could they have discovered his identity.

FOR A BETTER FARM POLICY.

After all Mississippi is far better off than some other sections of the country, the mid-West for instance, where agriculture was so hard hit by the recent drought. Reports are coming in that the damage to crops is not near so bad as was expected. There will be a fair yield of cotton, corn, potatoes, etc., but how much better off the State would be if attention had been turned to the development of the dairy industry a few years ago? Our people have too long confined their efforts to make their livelihood by sticking to the one or two crop system, simply for the reason that they have been able to get along and exist by working only a part of the time each year. Pursuance of such a policy year after year finds them in the same financial condition when they balance their books at the end of each twelve months. Maybe some time they will "see the error of their way." At any rate we are hoping they will.

UNHEALTHY PURSUIT.

There has been a lot of cattle stealing going on up in Pearl River county during recent months, so the cattle owners banded together to put a stop to it. Result: Ed Lee, a white man from the neighboring county of Forest, was found in the act of skinning a sheep which he was charged with having stolen. A charge of buckshot, fired by some one whose identity is not known, found lodgment in Lee's body and a few days later his death at a Poplarville hospital was announced. Investigation disclosed that the dead man bore a very unsavory reputation where he lived, it was said.

RIDDING THE WINDY CITY.

That Chicago gangster who was murdered by other gangsters a few weeks since left records which may be helpful in ridding the Windy City of a number of unworthy public officials who "did business" with him. Judges, police officers and politicians of both high and low degree, it is disclosed by the dead gangster's private records were in "cahoots" with the criminal element and underworld characters and such disclosure is going to be a great aid in the war now being made to clean up Chicago.

RELIGION VS. PUGILISM.

Now that's a disgusting story which came from Los Angeles a few days since telling how Aimie McPherson, head of the Angeles Temple, and her mother had engaged in a rough and tumble fight, the mother sustaining a broken nose and Aimie getting a black eye. When these religious leaders engage in pugilistic encounters, it is about time for the authorities to padlock the Temple.

FEDERAL FUNDS TO BE RESTORED.

Restoration of $340,000 annual federal aid to the extension and experiment forces of Mississippi has been effected through the formal exchange of telegrams between Governor Bilbo and the United States department of agriculture. These funds would never have been granted had the governor persisted in his announced intention to stand by his appointee, Lee Denson, to whom the department was opposed.

CONGRATULATIONS CHRONICLE-STAR.

The Pascagoula Chronicle-Star entered upon the eighty-sixth year of its existence last week, and here's wishing it may continue publication until it reaches and passes a full century of usefulness to the community which by generous support shows its appreciation of its worth as a newspaper.

EFFECTIVE REMEDY

Fines of $300 and costs and one year's imprisonment was recently imposed on several pistol "toters" by a Chicago judge. Now that is the proper way to put an end to the practice of men walking around with concealed weapons. Such sentences by every judge in the country would soon put a stop to killings, or at any rate reduce the number to a large extent.

DEMOCRAT FOR WHITE HOUSE.

There will be a Democrat in the White House when President Hoover goes out. That is just as certain as anything can be. The present administration has been a failure from the day it assumed control of governmental affairs, such as has never before been the case, and the people are determined to make a change.

EVIL IN DISGUISE.

One good thing resulting from the recent mid-west drought is that it forced Marion Tally to return to the operatic stage. Her great voice is too sweet to be wasted away out on a Missouri wheat farm.

"There are better times just around the corner," so we are told by some of the "Big Likes" who profess to know what they are talking about. However, in common with the rest of the country, we would rather see than hear of those "better times just around the corner." Of course, just such periods of depression have been experienced in the past in this country, but in each instance such conditions were easily explained and understood. Such is not the case at this time. Every man you meet and talk with ascribes a different reason for the lack of employment and dull business in every line of industry, and there you are.

We read in the papers almost every day where some motorist is either robbed or killed by hitchhikers. While it looks hard to disregard the request of apparently tired and footsore wayfarers for a ride it is a very dangerous thing to do. There is no way to tell the deserving hiker from the one who will do you harm. So it's better to be safe than sorry.

LOCAL SIDELIGHTS

The death, Sunday of H. E. Wilder, of New Orleans, whose automobile is claimed to have skidded in the gravel and went down the 40-foot embankment and caused his death, is another of the many tragedies along the Old Spanish Trail since its creation between Mississippi and Louisiana. And, it might be only the pessimist who might say so, but it is a safe bet this one will not be the last.

Cheap roads, that is those not hard surfaced and unprotected from guard rails where the hazard is apparent, are expensive and subsequently disastrous. In fact, it does appear some one or county or State should be held responsible just as we hold railroads and other public carriers and mediums. Just how long we are going to allow the Old Spanish Trail with its multiple hazards to remain as a death trap it is hard to say. But one thing is certain, there should be immediate action taken in the premises and the matter remedied. A life is too precious to allow this sort of thing to continue.

NO SUCH QUANTITY AS FREE THIS AND FREE THAT.

If the voter is going to allow himself or herself to believe in this free stuff business he or she is going to awaken to the fact sooner or later that it is a delusion. There is no such thing as free bridges, free school books and no end down the line. The tax-payer is carrying a terrific load just now because of this alleged free stuff. The free bridge over Bay St. Louis is a vast and necessary improvement, and we would not wish to do without it, but this subject of free bridges does not exist. Our ad valorem taxes have been boosted by this bond issue, just as other bond issues for free things. The gasoline tax is getting so top heavy that there will sooner or later be a revolt of feeling in the matter. One thing probable, it will cause a substitute for gasoline to be discovered, and possibly something that will not permit of carrying so heavy a tax.

MISSISSIPPI STATE NUISANCE TAX.

Mississippi's nuisance tax is damaging to every business interest. It is responsible for cigarettes, cigars and many other things being purchased over the State line in Louisiana where such tax was abolished. It is quite certain Mississippi's next legislature will repeal this measure. We are too liberal with our appropriations and the State is now sponsoring things it never did, because it could not afford it. Our legislators have gone revenue mad because there is too much money appropriated for many things we just cannot afford to pay for. In private life we do not buy the things or pay the price we cannot afford.

SMALLER AND BETTER COTTAGES FOR VISITORS.

Visitors to the Mississippi Gulf Coast this summer have been numerous and the Bay-Waveland district received its liberal share of patronage, and the popularity of this section has well been sustained. Our proximity to New Orleans is a most valuable asset. Thousands come to the Gulf Coast for sea bathing. Then the fishing attracts many and as has been said this is the motorist's paradise.

Many more visit here for the season or part of it but a local real estate representative brings to mind the fact that there is scarcity of smaller cottages (not camps) with ground privileges, and properly but not expensively equipped, the real estate agent in question says the investment would pay. Such improvement would undeniably prove a paying investment and an asset to Bay St. Louis as a resort.

Every effort has been exerted to get the visitor to this section. Every attraction to health, happiness and peace of mind is here after the visitor arrives. But to what extent are we able to accommodate those who would seek to come and spend the summer days with us. There is a hysteria of traveling over the country by auto, roughing it, as it were and many of

L. & N. R. CO.'S POSITION.

"What cannot be cured must be endured," therefore failure of Bay St. Louis to retain the accounting department of the Louisville and Nashville railroad should be accepted with good grace by the business and other interests of our city.

Removal of the department from here will be a severe blow, as it means the loss of a payroll of something like $40,000 annually, and also the removal of a number of the company's employees, every one of whom bear records for good citizenship, which has been an asset to the town.

Every effort was made by the business interests, the city and county authorities, Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations to induce the railroad company to rescind its order for removal of the department, but such effort was unavailing, the high officials of the railroad asserting that the order was made as a move to curtail expenses by consolidation of all its auditing offices and dispensing with the services of a large number of employees.

It is a matter of common knowledge that the business of the railroads throughout the whole country has suffered a severe slump during the past few years owing to the competition of motor freight truck and passenger bus lines, therefore retrenchment in every department of railroad operation is not only necessary but imperative. Such facts being realized, no sensible person has either cause or reason to grumble or criticize the railroad company in this matter.

The L. & N. has for more than a half century been the largest contributor in taxes to both Bay St. Louis and Hancock county, and surely is more entitled to every dollar paid by our citizens in the matter of freight and passenger fares than the freight and bus lines which pay only a nominal tax and are daily damaging and destroying our highways.

These we see going through, dirty and dusty, worn and haggard, backs the opinion all the more that this weary-willie stuff is only until the novelty will have been worn off.

PARISHIONERS RALLY TO OCEAN SPRINGS PASTOR.

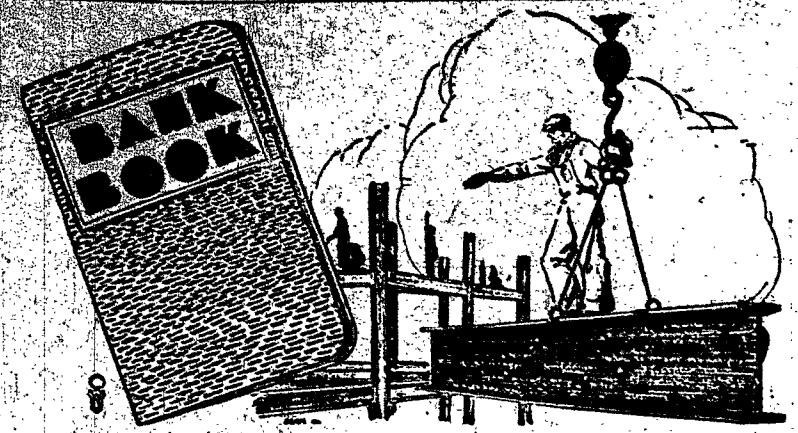

This has been the month for fairs and other church benefits and to this there has been no exception to any one community. Over in Ocean Springs Rev. Father J. H. Chauvin has just published a card of thanks to the people of that vicinity through the local newspaper. He itemizes receipts of the fair, as so much from the lemonade table, so much from cake table, etc., etc., which amounted to $432.00, expenses $22.81. Net receipts $409.19. This sort of a statement should prove most satisfying not only to the parishioners but also to others who spent their money and made it possible to realize such profit. Father Chauvin, formerly of Bay St. Louis is well known here and local folks will read with much interest of this successful rally to his little church.

CARROLL AVENUE IS DUSTIER THAN THE DUSTIEST.

What to do with our dusty city streets is as much of a problem as to know what to do with our Old Spanish Trail with its furrows and ruts of gravel and sand. There was a time when cities water sprinkled the principal streets. This as a public health measure, and that precaution of guarding the public health is as vital today as ever. Union street was always known as one of the most dusty thoroughfares in the city. Nothing approached it. But since treated with hardsurfacing composition that opprobrium no longer exists. People who live on Carroll avenue, however, are unanimous in acclaiming themselves part of an endurance test to the extent they suffer more from the dust nuisance than people living anywhere else. There is no doubt this is the dustiest of dusty streets, barring none.

BILOXI ADVANCES GOLF FEES.

Heretofore fifty cents, Biloxi Country Club has advanced its green fees to $1.10, the odd cents appended a federal tax. "Other courses along the Mississippi gulf coast are not collecting the federal tax," says the keeper, "but no doubt the fee absorbs it." However, this seemingly does not effect the popularity of the

PINE HILLS MANY PLAYERS WEEK-END.

The past week-end perhaps saw more players on Pine Hills links than at any time during the season. Nineteen autos were counted around the club house at one time and all during the afternoon and on Sunday both morning and evening, many players were noted. Pine Hills is deservedly popular and furnishes an added attraction to the thousands who visit the Bay-Waveland and Pass Christian section. It is noted quite a number of resident Bay St. Louis players register and play the game regularly.

Fee Grabbing And Suits For Individual Fees Will Have To Be Stopped, He Says—More Legitimate Process Is Discussed.

The startling statement that the state tax collector, without authority to bring any suit in the courts of Mississippi, was made recently by Judge Fenslow D. Hewitt of McComb, district attorney for the fourteenth district and candidate for attorney-general in the 1931 primary.

Judge Hewitt stopped in Jackson for a short time in the course of his travels over the state during which he says he has been pleased with the reception that his candidacy has received throughout Mississippi. "Wherever I go I am greeted with enthusiasm and offers of support from the Tennessee line to the Gulf Coast."

Concerning his statement that the tax collector is without authority to file suits for the state, Judge Hewitt said: "The attorney-general is the legal advisor of all the state, county and district officers, and must advise in all matters pertaining to the legal affairs of the state. I make the following startling statement, which will add new duties to this very important office. The attorney-general is the one and only person who can file suit for and on behalf of the state of Mississippi. The state revenue agent now the state tax collector, with his regularly retained counsel, is without authority as well as every other state official, to bring suit in the courts of our state without first obtaining the consent and approval of the attorney-general. This is indeed a startling statement to make. It will not be pleasing to some people, but nevertheless, since it is the law of the land, I do not hesitate to make the statement after a full analysis of the law on this question. The office of attorney-general is created by section 173 of the constitution. The duties and powers of the office are not therein defined.

"The supreme court of Mississippi, in the court case of the state ex rel F. D. Hewitt, district attorney versus the Capitol Springs, Inc., and the Pickwick-Greyhound Lines, commonly known as the bus case, held that the attorney-general of our state, which is a constitutional office, was vested with all common law powers. The office of attorney-general was one known to the common law and had well known and well defined powers, and it is incumbent upon him to perform clearly prescribed duties. He was the law officer of the crown, the sovereign and in the country the state government, and the only legal representative in the courts, being so vested with these powers by law. It is competent for the state legislature to impose upon him new duties growing out of the public policy or convenience, but it cannot strip him of his time-honored and common law function and devolve upon other officials the duties possessed by the attorney-general. The office of state revenue agent, now the state tax collector, is not a constitutional office, but is created by the legislature and any authority granted this officer which takes away the common law powers of the attorney-general, not sanctioned by the constitution, is void and the tax collector has no legal standing in court in his own name, and all money paid out of the public treasury for regularly retained counsel is paid contrary to law. The attorney-general is the chief law officer of the state and the only officer empowered by the constitution to represent the people in any suit or proceeding in which the state is the real party in interest. He is the sole official advisor of the executive officers, boards, commissions and departments of the state government, and it is his duty to conduct the law business of the state both in and out of court. The attorney-general and all of his assistants are paid a salary, and all money collected will go into the state treasury, and with these added duties, he ought to be a man who is wise in counsel deliberate in judgment, learned in the law, with a high sense of honor and justice.

"When this is done fee grabbing will stop, all suits will be tried upon their own merits, the money collected from delinquents will be paid into the state treasury for the benefit of the tax payers, the general welfare will be promoted, business will prosper, and the honor and glory of Mississippi will shine in this new day."

GARDEN CREATED BY EDWARD C. BORN IS FINE ARRANGEMENT

Plants of Many Varieties are Grown in Beautifully Landscaped Garden at 336 Carroll Avenue

A garden of charm and great variety of plant culture is that which Edward C. Born has created at the Born family home, Broadlawn, 336 Carroll avenue, Bay St. Louis. A garden which is landscaped throughout the more than 150 feet fronting on Carroll avenue and almost 250 feet deep. In a setting that is peculiarly suited to garden development the beautifully located ground, several feet higher than the sloping lands on either side, presents the effect of a terraced whole completely surrounded with delightful wooded sections. The well drained soil is conducive to successful shrub growth.

In planning the garden Mr. Born laid out a semi-formal plan which is developed with a hedge on east and west, the western hedge of tall poplars finding a duplicate in the lower growing poplars of the east fence. Two stately poplars giving an entrance to the lawn by way of the bird bath placed between them. A further bit of formality is found in the garden furniture which includes a number of jars in grays and tans, reflection ball and bench. About the house and following the eastern hedge there are formal flower beds in which great quantities of shrubs and annuals are found flourishing.

Specimen plants, such as yew, magnolia, Judas tree or red bud, camphor tree, are placed about the grounds and surrounding them are the beds of annuals, these flowering plants giving place as the season advances to yet other annuals, for example petunias replaced with periwinkle or vines. One unusually attractive bed is that of handsome zinnias about the native magnolia. An effective hedging is being grown to the east of the garden where the watermelon creeper myrtle is alternated with the white oleander, and on the opposite side of the garden alleys of a variety of colors alternate with the poplars. Clinging closely to the fences on either side are found quantities of giant orange cosmos.

Adjacent to the house at the front are grown massive arbor vitae with ligustrum plants between as the lower growing shrubs, while to the side plants almost without number, are grown in effective massing and beds of roses parallel the walk. Some of the handsomest plants in the garden are the native youpones which have been cultivated by nature and retained in their charm by Mr. Born. Several native pines add beauty to the grounds.

To the rear of the garden is found the nursery where a number of pecan trees, several satsuma oranges, persimmons, pears, grow. Both scuppernong and muscadine are used to form arbors. An unusual bit of blossoming was found last week in the full flowering of the satsuma trees, the flowers of the early spring having been killed by frost and a second growth giving promise of fruit.

At the front fence are found several interesting vines including the Mexican lace vine now in flower. Mr. Born is not only an excellent gardener but a splendid botanist and is acquainted with his plants, their habits, their growth and their botanical peculiarities and a visit to his garden on a personally conducted tour is a happily remembered experience. He is to be congratulated upon his garden which is now, but two years old.

MARY PICKFORD TO DESERT FILM FOR STAGE PLAY

Colleen Moore, Vilma Banky And Rod La Roque Also To Appear for Selwyn

Balancing the rush of stage players to the Hollywood sound film studios, four motion picture stars—Mary Pickford, Colleen Moore, Vilma Banky and Rod La Roque—will desert the screen this fall to appear in Broadway legitimate productions, it was announced yesterday by Arch Selwyn, under whose management they will be seen.

The plays for all except Miss Pickford have been selected. Mr. Selwyn's first production with a motion picture star in the leading role will see Miss Moore make her Broadway debut in an original play by Benjamin F. Glazer, the title for which has not yet been chosen. Charlie Dillingham will be an associate of Mr. Selwyn in this production.

Miss Moore's play is scheduled to open in October and not long after Mr. Selwyn will embark on his second venture, a play co-starring Rod La Roque and Vilma Banky, who is Mrs. La Roque in private life. Their vehicle, "How to Be Happy," is an adaptation from the Hungarian by John Emerson and Anita Loos. Miss Loos and Miss Banky are now in London conferring on the play, which will be presented on Broadway after a brief road tour.

Miss Pickford has been reading three plays and her selection is expected to be known in a few days. Whatever her choice the play will have its premiere early in 1931. For several weeks it had been reported that Mr. Selwyn was seeking to sign Miss Pickford for the Broadway stage and during this time it was said that she looked favorably on appearing in Sir James M. Barrie's "Quality Street," playing the role created by Maude Adams.

According to Mr. Selwyn, the Barrie work is not among the three plays Miss Pickford is now considering as best for her return to the stage, on which she has not appeared since 1908, she had a role in David Belasco's production of "The Warrens of Virginia."

The invasion of Broadway by motion picture stars who have been among the greatest film attractions was pointed out yesterday as another of the changes the talking pictures have wrought in the theater. The film stars feel that their failure to "click" in talking films has been due not to lack of ability, but to being assigned roles in which they were miscast. By appearing on Broadway the screen players see a chance to gain suitable screen material, as well as getting the opportunity for receiving further dramatic training. For talking pictures, however, they are not so much interested. Many film players have looked to Broadway since the success of Lily Damita in "Sons o' Guns" and Lillian Gish in "Uncle Vanya." The latter production, again with Miss Gish in the cast, will reopen next month for a two-week run at the National.

Others May Be Signed. Mr. Selwyn's productions are expected to act as a spur to other producers in signing film notables for stage plays. The signature of Douglas Fairbanks is being sought for a stage contract and among the others in Hollywood wanted for Broadway appearances are Ronald Coleman, Jack Oakie, Greta Garbo, Bebe Daniels and Norma Shearer.

Miss Pickford, despite the time which has elapsed since she last appeared on the stage, has had considerable experience in the legitimate theater, even though it did not extend very far beyond child roles. When she was five years old she had a speaking part with the Valentine Stock Company in Toronto, her native city, and three years later she toured with a company playing "The Little Red Schoolhouse."

Miss Pickford was only nine when she was among the featured players in "The Fatal Wedding," after which she appeared in a number of popular melodramas. After playing with Chauncey Olcott in "Edmund Burke," she came to Broadway in "The Warrens of Virginia," originating the role of Betty Warren. The screen then beckoned and she went to the Biograph studio, where her film career began. Her latest picture, a talking production, was "The Taming of the Shrew," in which she was co-starred with Douglas Fairbanks, her husband. She recently began production on a second talking picture, but it was abandoned.

Neither Miss Moore nor Miss Banky has appeared on the stage. Miss Banky played in Hungarian pictures before being brought to this country by Samuel Goldwyn to star in silent films. Mr. La Roque, a screen player since 1914, was on the stage almost before his schooling was finished and before entering the motion pictures he played in stock with Willard Mack.

TAXATION IS SERIOUS PROBLEM THE STATE WILL HAVE TO SOLVE

"Forms of taxation have been multiplied until an harassed people wonder just how long the hour will be postponed when their annual tax burden will exceed their annual income."

"For several years the total ad valorem taxes paid to the state treasury have been insufficient to cover appropriations made for schools, exclusive of colleges and Confederate soldiers."

"All the way through the departments of government the hand of extravagance is manifest, and, with all these multiplied appropriations, the state of Mississippi is maintaining to-day departments and bureaus at great expense that 25 years ago were not even dreamed of."

"The state of Mississippi is a big business and just as long as its operation and manipulation is in the hands of political pie-cutters and pie-eaters, new forms of taxation will come into existence to burden and weigh down the backs of a people whose heads are already bowed with political shame."

WHO SAYS THIS IS NOT REAL PROGRESS?

Gas That Was Once Thought Tabooed Now Serves 21,000 More Industries Than Formerly.

The old saying that "You can't keep a good man down," might be paraphrased into "You can't keep a good industry down."

A generation or two ago when electricity first came into common use the seeds of the time forecast the end of the gas industry, as gas, up to that time, had been used principally for lighting.

Today gas has 21,000 or more industrial uses, is an outstanding cooking fuel, is coming into increasing favor for heating and refrigeration, and is employed in one way or another in most modern homes. That is real progress.

CHARGES GOV. LONG
OPPOSES SHORT CUT
BECAUSE HE IS PEEVED

Gulfport Guide Says There
Must Be Men and Women
Of Sufficient Influence
To Prevail Upon Powers
That Be.

It was our good fortune to drive to New Orleans within the week and to have seen something of the splendid improvements that Louisiana has made along the Old Spanish Trail from the Mississippi line into the Crescent City.

Either paved or oiled and newly surfaced, and provided with three splendid bridges that span the Lake reduce in every move to preclude by one route and Rigoleto and Chef Menteur by the other, marked progress has been made along this much-used thoroughfare.

Hancock county has paved its beach front from the county line to Waveland and there remains now but a short link in an airline route that will reduce the distance from Gulfport to New Orleans by nineteen and one-half miles, all of which would be paved.

Governor Long's only objection to this shorter route, is that some New Orleans publishers live either at the Pass or at the Bay, and they might be privileged to use, "desecrate" and enjoy this shorter cut from the city to the Coast.

There is, of course, the selfishness of Slidell, which has been most aggressive in every move to preclude the diversion of traffic from the Coast along the shorter route away from that city.

Louisiana and Mississippi have been spending millions in an undertaking to make this playground and business area more accessible to the world and to themselves. Seawalls, bridges and highways have been constructed until only a few final touches are essential to the completed picture.

Certainly there must be in Mississippi and Louisiana men and women of sufficient influence with the administration of Louisiana and its highway building department to prevail upon the powers that be to give the stamp of approval to a project so essential. In co-operation with Hancock County and Mississippi, Louisiana should provide this missing link that the business of this area might be strengthened, and this one great move made to speed up the flow of traffic which increasingly must come as distance is shortened and our region is made more inviting to the added thousands who would use this important highway.—Gulfport Guide.

Benevolent Knights of America Enjoy Outing To
Bay St. Louis Sunday

Swimming, boating and athletic contests for the children were part of the amusements of the mid-summer outing of the Benevolent Knights of America, held Sunday in Bay St. Louis, on the front lawn and garden grounds of St. Stanislaus college, which Brother Peter, president, generously privileged the excursionists to use for the day. In addition to the beautiful grounds used of the gym for all-day dancing was used and the guests also enjoyed using the bath pier.

The party arrived from New Orleans during the morning hours and were met at the L. & N. depot by Mayor Chas. Traub, Sr., who escorted the party in his official capacity to the college grounds, welcoming each and everyone.

Several hundred members and their families and friends left New Orleans in the morning on a chartered train, and returned late in the evening. F. L. Lodes, chairman of arrangements, was assisted by P. J. Stakelum, grand commander, and other officers. Members of the Ban Kiln Arms served on the reception committee, of which Mrs. Besie M. Hanson, the secretary, was chairman.

"We had a hundred per cent of a good time," said Mr. Lodes to The Echo, "and we hope to be able to return again next season, possibly bringing a larger number in our party. We were delighted with the welcome we received and the manner in which the college management treated us."

Charles B. Mollere, Waveland I. G. A. Store Man Home From Houston

Attending a most successful and interesting business convention at Houston, Texas, Charles B. Mollere, proprietor of the I. G. A. Store at Waveland, is back home and is enthusiastic with his trip and the benefits gained from this business conference.

This was a group meeting of the Independent Grocers' Alliance of America, known as the South-Western League. Three days were spent in lectures, interspersed with vaudeville and other entertainment. Actual demonstrations and exposition of facts proved eye-openers to the grocers who had assembled, and they learned more about what they are doing.

The high spot of the conference was the subject of giving no credit, the bane of both customer and merchant and the ultimate tragedy of both.

Decision of L. & N. R. R.
To Move Office Away
Will Not Be Changed

In 1930 and compared them with the earnings for the first six months in 1929, and the report showed that the L. & N. Railroad had earned a little bit more than $18,000,000 less in 1930 than in 1929, for the like period of six months.

"This was astounding to me. In addition to this Mr. Evans told me that they had consolidated their offices in Louisville and had consolidated their yards, causing the loss of employment to hundreds and hundreds of men. He further stated to me that the big building that they were in, that they had left off so many men, and had consolidated so many departments that the building was practically empty."

"Mr. Evans told me he had been working for the railroad for sixty years, but had never seen a like condition. He further showed me a report for the last fifteen days, and the earnings of the railroad had dropped off compared with a like period of 15 days before."

"He went on to say that the Railroad usually got a good amount of freight from the crops from Tennessee and Kentucky, but this year the railroad was confronted with the fact that it brought in practically no crops in Tennessee and Kentucky. Another problem that the Railroad had to compete and the only way the railroad could meet these conditions, with a tremendous loss of income, was to cut these expenses. That the railroad had not been spending any money for improvements, because they had none, and stated that they had been making no dividends at this time, but merely enough to make a sufficient amount of money to meet the pay-roll."

"I used as an argument that Pensacola had received a little grace, but Evans positively assured me that there was no grace extended to Pensacola, that the order for moving had been given, but that the date had not yet been set, but that it would be set and no extension had been given to Pensacola."

"I finally asked him that instead of giving us a permanent order not to move it from here, if he would change his order and permit us to have the auditing department here until January 1st, hoping that between now and January 1st, that a change of conditions might take place, and justify the railroad in permitting the office to remain here. His reply was that he would rather state that if there was a change in conditions that he would move the office back, and that he could do that better than agree to leave it stay there now."

"I jumped on this like a duck after a June bug, and asked him if I was authorized to make this statement to my people, that if a change in conditions took place that he would move the office back. He immediately said, of course, he would not want to make any promises, and would not want to be in position of making promises, but that if conditions got better he could do something for us."

"This concluded my visit with Mr. Evans. Of course, there was much more discussion that took place, but to no avail.

"After I left Mr. Evans' office, and the afternoon while waiting around town I had to take a room in the hotel, but that afternoon, I decided to see the town and I hired a jitney and drove around the town, and saw the number of men who were out of work in Louisville. I talked to the Jitney driver and he told me that he had been working for the L. & N. Railroad. He had been working as a brakeman. You know that seniority counts on the railroad, and the driver had been breaking for the railroad for two years and when they consolidated the yards he was laid off, and there were so many men ahead of him that his name did not even appear on the Board. So that there were hundreds of people out of employment because of this consolidation."

"It strikes me that the thing for the Chamber of Commerce to do, is to look into the question of whether or not we can have the Superintendent's office moved over here, with the loss of the Auditing Department. Sometime back there was some talk about moving this office over here, I think during Mr. Bose's time."

"Some railroad had to rent a building at New Orleans, and if this office could be moved over here the rental could be saved, and he could work his offices effectively from here."
